PAVING WORK PROGRESSING

WIIL POUR CONCRETE ON WALNUT MONDAY.

OPEN FILLMORE WED.

Wabash R. R. Has Crew Constructing Macadam Road on Dunn From Seventh Street South.

According to the engineers, the Cook & O'Brien Construction Co. expects to start pouring concrete Monday for the base of the paving on Walnut street between Twelfth street and the south line of the Wabash right-of-way.

The curbing on this project was finished up this afternoon and the subgrade for two blocks on the north end from Twelfth street south, was put in shape for the concrete base. This pavement on this portion of Walnut street is to be a two and a half inch fiber brick laid on a four inch base f concrete and an inch cushion of sand between, the top to be covered with asphaltic filler. Cook & O'Brin's crew has been mixing the concrete for the curb on Walnut at Fourth street on Fillmore, where the mixing machine is standing. The pavement on Walnut street from Twelfth to the Wabash tracks is twenty feet from curb to curb. On account of the width it will mean that parking, except for a few minutes, will prove hazardous and undoubtedly will not be tolerated.

The two blocks on Fillmore street, between Second and Fourth streets, which were completed recently, will be opened to traffic by next Wednesday, the engineers thought today. The dirt which has been used to cure the paving on the block between Second and Third streets was removed yesterday. When these last two blocks on Fillmore are opened to traffic, a paved street from Second to Eighth srteet just laid with seventh inch reinforced concrete this summer will be entirely open.

All the brick and crushed rock that will be needed for the two and a quarter blocks of brick paving on Walnut from Twelfth street south is on hand, the engineers said this afternoon. If the weather holds good the paving company expects to have enough of the concrete base laid by Wednesday so that the bricklayers can commence puting down the two and a half inch fiber brick.

A grading crew of the concern was sent out to Lincoln street this afternoon to commence the job of getting the sub-grade on Lincoln street between Main street and Buchanan street in readiness for paving. This is a short job in the road to connect up Buchanan street with the South Main street paving and can be completed in a half a day. It will be of seven inch reinforced concrete.

The Wabash railroad has most of the work completed except the top layer for the macadam street the railroad is constructing along Dunn street from Seventh street south to Fourth street. This road lies between two tracks and will be used by the trucks for hauling from the freight depot and the freigh cars.

May Hold Tri-County Camp Here Next Year

The tri-county boys and girls 4H club camp, known as camp Hol-Atch-Away, which was held August 4, 5 and 6 at Hundles' Spring Water Resort in Atchison, will probably be held held next year at Maryville, although no definite plans have been formulated, according to the Atchison County Journal this week.

The Journal of Rock Port commends the Nodaway County health nurse, Miss Margaret Davison, saying:

"Miss Davison was present at the camp during the entire period, and her services were almost invaluable for sprained ankles, cut fingers and bruised elbows and knees. The unanimous opinion of the boys and girls was that Miss Davison was surely a good sport and she merits the thanks of all three counties for her excellent work in caring for the children during the camp period."

MURDERS TO AVENGE PAL.

1 CAUGHT; 1 MISSING

Ben Hance, In Dying Breath, Names Wolfe and Anderson As the Murderers.

Munice, Ind., Aug. 15—Armed posses of sheriffs and deputies today were searching the highways of Indiana in vain for any trace of George "Dutch" Anderson wanted for killing Ben Hance and his wife here yesterday in revenge for their testimony which aided in sending Gerald Chapman, notorius mail robber to the death cell.

Charles "One-arm" Wolfe, pal of Anderson and Chapman, and named by Hance in dying whispers as one of the two men who shot him in his secluded farm home, is in custody but Anderson is declared by Hance to be the real slayer, according to the police. His trail led to Yorktown, Ind., and there faded as if he disappeared into thin air, Chief of Police, Earl Randolph of Muncie admitted today. Anderson, the chief asserted, made no effort to cover his trail to Yorktown but once there disappeared completely. Wolfe, after hours of grilling by the police, maintained his innocence despite the dying statement of Hance, that "Wolfe and Anderson got me."

The shooting occurred after the Hances met Anderson, who is believed to have been accompanied by at least two other men, on a main highway a few miles west of Muncie, late this afternoon presumably by appointment. The shooting came at the conclusion of a conference, police believe.

Tracks in Dust Tell Story

Another version of the story is that Anderson and his gange were trailing the Hances all afternono and the shooting occurred after the pair had sought to throw the pursuers off the trail. It is known, however, both Hance and his wife and at least three of the gunmen were standing in the road at the time of the shooting. Tracks in the dust of the road led police to this conclusion.

Mrs. Hance was killed outright and her husband died a short time after being taken too a hospital.

The men are believed to have leaped into their motor cars and to have headed west toward Anderson.

Crawls to Coornfield

After he was shot, Hance managed to crawl down the road and into a cornfield. A few minutes after the shooting a motorist, coming upon Mrs. Hance's body in the middle of the road and seeing the abandoned motor car, stopped to investigate. He heard Hance's feeble cries for help, and rushed him to a hospital. Before his death Hance identified the slayer of Anderson.

No trace of Anderson has been found since.

Hance testified in the trial of Chapman for the murder of a New Britain, Conn., policeman, the crime for which the notorious criminal is under sentence of death.

While Chapman and Anderson were in hiding in Hance's home last winter from Atlanta penitentiary officials and New York detectives, Hance informed police authorities and Chapman was surrounded on the streets of Muncie January 18 and captured.

Chapman was reported to be visiting Muncie at intervals and making his headquarters at the Hance home. Several traps were laid for him, but he was successful in escaping arrest until police, acting an information from Hance, surrounded the home.

Quarry Appears

After several hours the escaped prisoner appeared. Two of the watchers fell in step behind him, while a motor car load of police drove up to him. When one of the policemen alighted from the car Chapman whipped out a pistol and opened fire. The shots were wild, however, and he was overpowered.

Chapman was taken to jail and federal authorities immediately were notified of his capture. He was turned over to the federal officials a few hours later and rushed to Indianapolis in order to forestall any efforts by his associates to help him escape.

New York, Aug. 15—George (Dutch) Anderson was tried and found guilty with Gerald Chapman of a mail robbery on Lower Broadway of more than 1 million dollars in securities in October, 1921. They were sentenced to the federal penitentiary at Atlanta for twenty-five years.

Both escaped from the penitentiary. Anderson later was sought in connection with a bank robbery at Bellmore, N. Y., and in connection with the killing of Patrolman James Skelly and the looting of a New Britain, Conn., department store, for which Chapman was convicted after he was arrested, January 18, at Muncie, Ind.

Anderson's whereabouts has been a mystery up to the present time. The last definite news of him was when Walter Shean, son of a wealthy hotel owner of Springfield, Mass., arrested in connection with the Skelly killing, mentioned both Chapman and Anderson as having engineered that crime.

BANK BANDITS OBTAIN $3,000

ESCAPE WITH CASH FROM DEEPWATER, MO., BANK.

ESCAPE IN A CAR

Five of Them Hold-Up Bank Today And Covers Two Bank Officials And Customer.

Deepwater, Mo., Aug. 15.—Five bandits held up the Bank of Deepwater here today and obtained $3,000 in cash. The bandits drove up to the bank in a touring car bearing a Kansas license. Three of them entered the institution flourishing revolvers. The cashier and the assistant cashier were behind the cage. A customer was standing near the door. The three men were covered with revolvers and made to lie on the floor while two bandits covered the bank officials and customers. The third man ran behind the cage and seized the cash which was placed in a suitcase. The bandits then left the bank and fled in the motor car.

Deepwater is in the southern part of Henry County, a short distance south of Clinton and about a hundred miles southeast of Kansas City. It is a town of about 1,500.

Writes About Nodaway County Hog Breeders

Missouri Ruralist Has Article About J. D. Gates, E. E. Carver and J. A. Johnson

The Missouri Ruralist had the following items about Nodaway County stock men:

One of the oldest breeders of Spotted Polands in North Missouri is J. D. Gates of Ravenwood. For years Mr. Gates kept a herd of Shorthorn cattle, but the hogs soon consumed most of his time and he disposed of the Shorthorns and gave most of his time to breeding and showing Spotted Polands. He has bred and showed more hogs that were consistents winners at the Iowa and Missouri state fair than any breeder in the West. J. D. Gates name on a pedigree means something to the farmer or beginner.

Among the younger class of Spotted Poland breeders who have made rapid advancement in the last two years and justly deserves success, is J. A. Johnson, Ravenwood, Mo. Mr. Johnson bought his first seed stock from the herd of J. D. Gates & Son. Mr. Johnson has at the head of his herd "Fontaine Giant." He has 70 spring pigs that he is growing nicely. Among the sow herd is a splendid sow by Spotted Gerstdale by Old Gerstdale Jones.

E. E. Carver of Guilford, Mo., has saved 50 fine spring pigs. They are mostly sired by his herd boar, Miller's Jones 2nd, by Miller's Jones, and out of Miller's Big Queen 2nd, bred by John Miller of Rock Valley, Iowa. Mr. Carver has one fine litter by Gypsy King. This hog was shown by Forest Rose last year and made grand champion at Missouri and Kansas fairs. He also has one litter by Smooth Jumbo, and one by Rose's Kind. Mr. Carver is the oldest breeder of Poland China hogs in Northwest Missouri, and in October this year, he will celebrate his 50th aniversary as a breeder of Poland China hogs.

FREIGHT RATES RE-ADJUSTED

FARMERS PROTESTING

Meeting Called for Thursday in Kansas City of Farmers and Shippers in 22 States.

Kansas City, Aug. 15.—Representative farmers and shippers from twenty-two states will meet here Thursday to take definite steps towards formulating a campaign against the proposed freight rate increase asked by western railroads.

Evidence will be assembled to be used against the railroads at the Interstate Commerce Commission hearing in Chicago, Sept. 8.

The roads are seeking a five per cent increase.

Washington, Aug. 15.—The railroads won a partial victory today in the southwestern commodity rate case when the Interstate Commerce Commission declared they were justified in putting into effect new carload commodity rates on four classes of commodities while on six other classes they ordered lower rates. The territory effected is points between Arkansas, Louisiana, west of the Mississippi Southern Missouri, Southeastern Kansas, Eastern Oklahoma and East Texas on one hand and a defined area in central, western and southern territory on the other.

The classes of commodities which will carry higher rates are: Fencing, nails, spikes, staples, bolts, hinges, door hangers, iron and steel pole-rods.

Lower rates based on distances will prevail n blocks, tiles, iron, steel, fresh meats, packing house products, bakery goods and wooden ware. All rates are effective on or before October 22.

Watermelons Are Placed on Sale at Every Corner

Watermelons and more watermelons.

If all the "darky's delights" that were brought into Maryville today were sold, every family in town will be feasting on watermelons for their Sunday dinners.

Early this morning growers of watermelons drove to the city and vied with early to find a prominent parking place where they displayed their wares. Automobiles loaded with big green watermelons were to be found on every corner and then in between. That there is no shortage in this crop this year is evidenced substantially.

Whites Threaten Mo. Cotton Pickers

Bragg City, Mo., Aug. 15.—Intermittent shooting, a dynamiting, and a few reported threats have tended to point towards great difficulties in this cotton section of Missouri.

The situation came up early in the week when two of the negro cotton pickers were shot at. Then later this week the home of one of the negro cotton pickers was dynamited and the white laborers were blamed for this.

Two Witnesses in Ex- Springs Lynching

Liberty, Aug. 15.—With only two witnesses scheduled to be heard at the inquiry into the lynching of Walter Mitchell, negro, at Excelsior Springs, August 7 began this afternoon. The grand jury investigation will not begin until next week when Judge Ralph Hughes returns home from his vacation.

J. J. Lowe and Charles Berry, deputy sheriffs in charge of the jail the afternoon of the lynching, are the only witnesses to be called.

Prosecuting attorney Raymond Cummins is assisted in the inquiry by W. L. Vandeventer, assistant attorney-general. Cummins said he had found that Mitchell had served two years in a Texas prison for cattle stealing and was wanted in Tennessee for Arson.

ADAMS STARTS HIS JAIL WAIT

MOTHER CAME YESTERDAY BUT RETURNED HOME TODAY.

WHERE TO TRY HIM?

That Is the Question—Criminal Court With Possible Death or Juvenile Court.

Sedalia, Aug. 15.—Bidding farewell for seven weeks until his trial in October to his father and mother, Everett Adams, 17 year-old high school athlete of Wilmington, O., sat gloomily in his cell in the Pettis County jail today while the conflict of legal opinion continued as to whether he could be hanged for the murder of Aden Clawson of Lodi, N. Y., or be sent to the state reformatory until he was 21.

The boy's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Adams are on their way back to Wilmington. His mother, who arrived here late yesterday did not discuss the crime with him. She just folded him into her arms and tried to comfort him. She bore up bravely and few saw the occasional tears she could not keep back.

Following the informal opinion of attorney-general, Robert Otto that the boy can be tried in a criminal court, county attorney, Roy Rucker, who is determined to get a "hanging verdict," continued today to study authorities in preparation for the fight he expects Claude Wilkerson, attorney for the boy to, make to get the case before a juvenile court.

Gotham Jewelers Will Use Tear Gas Bombs

New York, Aug. 15—(United Press) Tear gas will be used by Gotham jewelers as an antidate for holdup men.

Capt. Adrian St. John, chemical warfare officer, has invented a new tear gas which blinds a person temporarily but which is not permanently harmful. The inventor claims no gas mask is proof against the new gas.

The latest protective device already had been tested and found successful.

END NEAR TO DEBT PARLEY

BRUSSELS READY TO PAY ON REASONABLE BASIS.

1 PERCENT BREACH

Would Total 5 Million Yearly In Interest—Little To Risk Parley's Success.

Brussels, Aug. 15—The Belgium debt commission in Washington must reach a settlement of some kind in the United States, a high official of the treasury ministry said today.

"We cabled instructions to members of the commisston to reach some sort of a settlement. The Belgium government will not quit the conference without arriving at a decision as the Italians did."

Washington, Aug. 15.—There is every indication that a compromise will be reached in the Belgian-American debt negotiations next week to permit Belgium to discharge its indebtedness to the United States on slightly better terms than those prescribed as "standard" in the British settlement.

A difference of one percent interest rate on $480 million dollars is in the center of the table of the negotiators and it is for this reason that Secretary of Treasury Mellon and Senator Smoot are en route to Plymouth, Ver., to lay the case before President Coolidge. One percent on the Belgium debt amounts to less than 5 million dollars a year, a figure which is substantially large in itself, but hardly enough for which to risk success of the negotiations.

Living Costs Keep Going Up

Increases on 404 Commodities is 1.6 Per Cent in July Over June and 8 3-4 Per Cent Over 1924

Washington, Aug. 15—The cost of living continues to advance skyward.

Figures made public today by the Department of Labor shows the general trend on 404 commodities arose 1.6 per cent in July as compared to June this year, the highest level reached since February, 1921. Comparing the prices in July to those of a year ago the figures show an increase of 8 3-4 per cent.

800 Fight in a KKK Pitched Battle

Millis, Mass., Augu. 15—Eight hundred Ku Klue Klansmen and anti-klansmen engaged in a pitched battle here today, the latest of a series of similar disturbances in Massachusetts this week. Stones and clubs were used freely. One man was seriously injured and bruised. State troopers arriving on motorcycles, broke up the battle. No arrests were made.

The name of the injured man, a klansman, was not learned for his friends bundled him into an auto and hurried away. State troopers dispersed the anti-klansmen in one direction and the klansmen in another.

Worth, Tex., a distance of 700 miles, that the highway is 75 per cent hard surfaced, with 50 miles additional under construction. The entire route will be hard surfaced within the next 3 years. This road passes through the heart of the world's greatest oil fields.

AUTOISTS HOPE IT'S TRUE.

News dispatches from an engineers' convention spread the rumor of a synthetic gasoline and a new type gasoline motor for automobile purposes which in combination, it is predicted, will revolutionize the automotive industry. There was the usual giant merger and billion dollar corporation without which such dispatches would not be complete.

Of course the new motor is vibrationless, powerful and flexible beyond anything yet known to the motorist, and the new fuel will eliminate carbon, will be cheaper than gasoline and will not generate poisonous gases.

If fuel and motor such as these have been evolved are the fulfillment of a wish long entertained by motordom and would, without question, revolutionize the whole automobile industry, but because they do promise to solve the problems of the industry the public receives the rumor as just that and no more.

In this instance it is possible that the chemists and engineers have achieved these things which the world so much needs, but too often the public is disappointed by reports which take the achievement for granted as soon as the need is recognized and the task to fill it is undertaken.

HOW TO CRUSH CRIME.

The very first requisite on the part of big business in its effort to crush the unparalleled outbreak of crime against life and property in this country is obedience to the law itself. Mr. Child's article in the Saturday Evening Post reveals an alarming condition among the young men and women of the country, nothing approaching it has ever occurred before in a civilization so highly organized as our own, and responsible for it are an idealism corrupted from a variety of sources, not the least of which has been the ruthless and dishonest, often criminal, conduct of big business itself. By act and example in flaunting law, in business buccaneering, in taking because it could, and in open extortion, it has for a quarter of a century now invited the courage that is upon us. The ideal of "easy money" and big money, of taking without return, of getting rich quick, has become a blight on our national life, and in subscribing to it the young hold-up lad and the girl bandit convince themselves that in moral turpitude, though their methods are cruder, they are no worse than "The Big Boys." The cynicism among our young people as to the existence of any such thing as real honor and probity is open and avowed, and the ability to "get by," the most revelatory and the most hateful phrase in our national vernacular, alone counts. And here enters the meretricious aims of education as understood in the United States—it has become a peril instead of a blessing—and the fiction, rotten in purpose and depraved in subject matter, which supplements it. As first aid, moving pictures that feed the young on false standards of life supposed to prevail among the rich—drunkenness, debauchery, luxury, absence of all restraint. By no means the least contributing agency the Volstead act, which gave the vice of drink the appeal of daily adventure, and the widespread violation of which has vitiated the whole body of essential law. The more we legislate and the more excited we become about this religious dogma and the other, the more apparent it becomes that we are a people without restraint or authority of any kind. The nation's leadership in business, in politics, in literature and in journalism needs a rebirth in the old integrities of Christian teaching and before much can be done must reconquer its own conscience. The cure must proceed from the top down and there must be more iron in our dealings with criminals.—Paris Mercury.

Do you still regard the poultry products around your farm as an unimportant side issue? It once was a mere incident in the country's business but in recent years it has taken rank as one of the chief farm industries. During the year 1924 the poultry products of this country aggregated $994,000,000 which was nearly 17 per cent of the total value of all the animals and animal products produced on the American farm. It was $50,000,000 more than the value of all the cattle produced and $846,000,000 more than the value of all sheep. Only our hogs brought us more. Our poultry brought us more money last year than our oats and barley combined and within $137,000,000 of all the wheat produced in this country.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By Charles P. Stewart
NEA Service Writer.

Washington, Aug. 15.—The American Federation of Labor already has its program for the next session of Congress very definitely worked out. It knows just what it wants and doesn't want. It aims to get the former if it can; to do all in its power to prevent the latter, or put an end to it, if it exists now. President William Greene's outline of his organization's policies is as clean cut and concise as the typical politician's discussion of party plans usually is uncertain and indefinite.

The federation scents a scheme, if Congress cuts out the surtax on big incomes, to put a sales tax in its place. "The average workman's living," President Green told me, "costs him practically all he makes. Taxes are passed along to him on everything. He carries the whole load—except the surtax. The man who sells to the workman makes a margin of profit. He includes his taxes in the prices of the goods he sells, and has his profit clear—of everything but the surtax. Abolishing the surtax and imposing a sales tax would be putting the entire burden on the poorer man. The federation opposes it. We're for tax reduction of course."

There's been considerable talk of action by President Coolidge to prevent further coal strike tieups. Nothing doing along that line, is the federation's view. "The supreme court," said President Green, "already has held government interference with labor's wages or hours unconstitutional. Those are matters purely between the employers and employes. What's more we shall oppose any attempt to restrict labor's normal activities further by government tribunals or boards.

We shall join the railroad labor group in an effort to pass the Howell-Barkley bill, providing for adjustment of disputes between the roads and their men by other than governmental means. We shall try to abolish the Railroad Labor Board.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS SAY

STATE HEALTH BOARD TOTTERS

With Dr. Cortez F. Enloe the center of controversy and the target of direct and indirect charges, the Missouri board of health will sit in early session and it is persistently rumored that the chairman and the secretary will sever their connections with the board unless Enloe resigns or is removed.

The call meeting of the state board of health is a logical step to take when such charges as those made by a Kansas City attorney has been made public and there should be no delay in getting at the details which either will refute or substantiate the allegations. If the documentary evidence can be explained away, it should be done at once lest erroneous conclusions become permanent through lack of contradiction.

On the other hand, if the charges be sustained, then immediate action should be taken to remedy a condition that involves not only moral turpitude but easily can constitute a menace to public health.

The attitude of Gov. Sam Baker in closing his eyes and ears to the incident further and expressing entire satisfaction with his appointee is a graceful gesture of loyalty to a personal friend.

A complete reorganization of the state health board at this time might entrench Dr. Enloe more firmly. Unless there should be an about face by the governor, Enloe's friends probably would replace those who have threatened to resign. Should such action follow the substantiation of the charges and involve him as a principal in the medical diploma mill frauds, the result of such a revised personnel would be little less than a calamity.—Kansas City Journal.

MRS. CHAMP CLARK AND BOWLING GREEN.

There is pathos in Mrs. Champ Clark's assertion that Bowling Green, the home town of the Clarks, does not deserve the $25,000 monument to Champ Clark which the State plans to erect there in the courthouse square. She considers Bowling Green disloyal because the townspeople did not side entirely with Mr. Clark in his historic row with William Jennings Bryan and Woodrow Wilson. Those whom Champ Clark believed were his enemies, were her enemies, and she thinks they should have been Bowling Green's enemies, too.

Measured by this fine standard of loyalty, did ever a town deserve a monument to its favorite son? There were New Yorkers who thought Grant a who considered Lincoln a mountebank. who considered Lincoln a muntebank. Fame may be controversial, but monuments are not. Political careers may be debatable, but an epitaph is final. Monuments and epitaphs stand above the bitterness of life. Thus, a statue to Clark in Bowling Green would pay tribute to qualities beyond argument; that here was a man worthy of honor for long public service. To these sentiments every citizen of Bowling Green might subscribe, without hypocrisy, such is the generous blessing of marble after death.

The statue in Bowling Green will be a tribute to a great American and Missourian. Mrs. Clark need have no fear of the curses that fall upon a prophet in his own country. The old scores lie in the grave with Champ Clark. His place in the history of the state is serene.— St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

MARKED FISH CAUGHT

Santa Rosa, Cal., Aug. 15. (United Press)—Three years after it had been marked and liberated at Sisson, on the Sacramento river, a female salmon was caught at Bodega on the coast near here.

The fish was caught by Angelo Smith, fisherman of this city, 12 miles south of Bodega heads, apparently on its way back to San Francisco bay and the mouth of the Sacremento river.

Eugene Scofield, of the commercial fishery department of the state fish and game commission, identified the markings, removal of the adipose and right ventricle fins.

The fish was two feet and seven inches in length when caught.

SENATOR JOHN B. KENDRICK.

A half century ago four gaunt horsemen drove a herd of cattle across the wild western plains from Texas into Wyoming on a bandit-infested, Indian-menaced and rustler-lined route. Theirs was a wonder achievement for the cattle world.

One of the four was Senator John B. Kendrick (D., of Wyo.), now a leader of the nation's Democracy and then an eighteen-year-old Texas cowboy. That great ride, written since into the archives of the West and into the pages of frontier fiction, gave birth to the Senator's greatest hobby—a love for the western ranges.

Kendrick now owns a 105,000 acre cattle ranch, sweeping from Wyoming into Montana. That's an area three times the size of the District of Columbia—almost a State by itself. And on it the Senator spends all his vacations and most of the time he's away from Washington. It represents his first great industrial achievement and his last, for on it the Senator expects to end his days.

There is little about Kendrick to indicate his early frontier life—except his eyes. They peer out from under shaggy eyebrows, with lines radiating from the corners due to gazing across broad, wind swept spaces. His is the frontiersman's mask.

Raises Livestock.

The Senator doesn't talk much of those early days. His interest is more in the present, for livestock raising has become an even more precarious undertaking than it was in that early period when cattlemen warred not only against rustlers, but against marauding bands of Indians and the Jess James type of bandits as well.

The Senator loves the range and the rancher's life. When on his great range, he will rise with the dawn, eat his "chuck" in the messhall, or at the wagon on the range, rope his own horse and then help ride herd with his weather-beaten band of cow punchers. He rides in every roundup to which he can escape from his Senatorial duties, and he still maintains much of his former ability with the lariat and the branding iron.

"I've ridden the range since my youth," he says. "And I still do. I love the open and the feel of a horse beneath me. I love the grandeur of the West, its plains, valleys and mountain peaks. There is no other life to match it."

Fools Cowboys.

Not so long ag, on one of his visits to the ranch, some of the cowboys thought they'd have a little fun with the "Governor." (Kendrick is "Governor" to his hys, because he ruled the state before coming to Washington.) They staked out a wild bronco for the boss to ride, figuring on having a laugh when he was thrown.

The Senator "bit" for the staked out horse, mounted him and was almost catapulted into the next county on the first buck. He just did manage to hang on until he got his old grips working, and then he buckled down to mastering the wild animal. After some ten minutes of tussling, Kendrick climbed down from a thoroughly subdued bronco, which was ready to trot gently and politely wherever the Senator directed. Then the boss turned and laughed at his range crew.

"I had the last laugh, anyway," was his only comment.

Poor Golfer.

For exercise while in the capital, Kendrick plays golf. He has spent three years, it is said, in trying to reduce his score below 100, but without material success.

Because of his love for the West the Senator also loves Western fiction. It is said by his friends that he himself is characterized in Zane Grey's "Lone Star Ranger" as well as in Emerson Hough's "North of 36," which is a story of the first great cattle drive from Texas. He is also a constant reader of constitutional authorities.

The Senator has one weakness—inordinate fondness for bow-ties. His intimate friends whisper that he collected 871 different bow ties by actual count and never wears the same one twice. Incidentally, he always wears a bow tie and never has been seen with a four-in-hand. The bows are of all shades and colors, but generally the Senator prefers blacks.

The Senator's hobbies can be rounded up with just two more—a love of vaudeville and a habit of taking long solitary walks. On he latter he may be found in out-of-the-way spots, where he roams in his quest for entertainment. Indeed, he is one of the State's best hikers, though no contest has ever decided the championship.

Monday—Senator Charles McNary.

TOM SIMS SAYS

A man's face may be his fortune. So may a woman's. Then a vanity case holds a lot of fortunes.

Only time a man's hair will really stay parted is after he has parted with it forever.

Furs will be most popular this coming winter among those wild animals which haven't been trapped yet.

They are going to make a little money out of wheat if prices don't go against the grain.

Horses and cows and pigs and sheep are valuable stock, but jackasses are the laughing stock of the world.

For all the opportunity she ever has to get out of the house her husband might as well lock her in when he leaves home each morning. Yet he wonders why she is aging so rapidly, why she is always too tired to go out in the evening or sometimes to even talk to him.

Such a husband has only to stay at home and do the house work himself for a week to learn how fatiguing is such labor as the sweeping and cleaning of rugs and carpets with an ordinary broom.

"Yesh."

"You have inspirations?"

NEXT WEEK IN MISSOURI HISTORY.

Compiled by the State Historical Society of Missouri, Columbia. Floyd C. Shoemaker, Secretary. August 16-22.

Mark Twain Memorial Park

The widow's mite and the rich man's gift lay themselves under tribute to build the "American Stratford-on-Avon."

In the summer of 1922 Ruth Lamson, with some of her friends, camped on the banks of the winding Salt River in the vicinity of Florida. They visited the home wherein had lived the dean of American humor, Samuel L. Clemens. "Dad" Violette had furnished it with furniture of its period and had stayed the hand of the wrecker. This was his private shrine to Clemens, and his contribution to Florida, the birthplace of Mark Twain.

The girls returned home from the trip filled with enthusiasm over the scenic grandeurs of the spot. With the impulsive fervor of youth, Ruth suggested to her father, B. F. Lamson, former secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Moberly, that the place was an ideal site for a park.

"Oh, daddy, you don't know what a wonderful park our camping ground would make."

The suggestion took root. Mr. Lamson paid a visit to the winding banks of the Salt River, he sat on its shaded banks, and drank in the beauty of this panorama. He like Mark Twain's brain-child, "wandered far from the accustomed haunts—and sought those places which were in harmony with his spirit."

There passed in review before his memory the lake beauties of Minnesota, the Thousand Islands of the St. Lawrence, and the scenic beauties of the Hudson, but here in his home country was an area wherein the rocks, the hills, the trees, the waters and the very sunshine praised their maker. Here was a natural garden that rivaled those far distant beauty spots.

Against this setting "Dad" Violette's suggestions for a shrine became visual to Mr. Lamson. Here was the place for the memorial to him who belonged to Missouri yet was the property of all the world; a monumental homage to him who "cheered and comforted a tired world."

Mr. Lamson published in the Moberly papers his story. The voice of the press caught it up here and told it nation-wide. The Literary Digest and similar publications carried stories with the same message. Out of this was formed the publicity campaign for the establishment and development of the Mark Twain Memorial Park.

Later a meeting was called of the editors of the immediate vicinity of Florida. There were present representatives of seven different newspapers and leading citizens of Florida. This meeting was planned to be only a preliminary gathering. It was more. It turned out to be something which "ran away" from Mr. Lamson.

"Mark Twain lived in a great many places in America and in other countries but he was born in only one and that little Florida." These words uttered by "Dad" Violette did it!

The land was offered at a price to be set by a committee chosen at the meeting, providing that the park would be establisned before the end of "Dad" Violette's days. "I am an old man and I would like to see the park established while I am yet living."

Omar Gray, that genial editor of Sturgeon, arose and in his true style said, "I too, am opposed to any delay in launching the park movement. I nominate myself treasurer and wish the honor of making the first contribution to the park fund."

At this meeting the following officers were elected: President, H. J. Blanton, editor of the Monroe County Appeal at Paris, Missouri and curator of the University of Missouri; vice-president, E. E. Swain, editor of the Kirksville Express, and W. C. Van Cleve of the Moberly Monitor-Index; treasurer, Omar D. Gray, editor of the Sturgeon Leader; publicity director, Edgar White, editor of the Macon Chronicle-Herald.

Like the proverbial snowball the movement grew. Money poured in from all parts of the state and even from the quarters of the whole nation. Like a golden thread in the woof of the fabric is to be seen the love and willingness of spirit which prompted this generosity.

It was the purpose of this committee to make this project not the handiwork of a few rich citizens but a united achievement mirroring the admiration of the many. In the files of The State Historical Society is a list of contributors whose gifts make up a sum of more than $15,000. Schools, newspapers, literary clubs, county associations, industries, historical societies, church organizations and private citizens make up the body.

ord is the name of Thomas A. Edison, East Orange, New Jersey. Such names as David R. Francis and William Jennings Bryan are written in between the names of scores of persons whose names are not so well known but who have equal claim in perpetuating the association of Mark Twain with his birthplace.

To call to mind that this is the spot of Mark Twain's birth is all that the memorial can do. It cannot make Clemmen's name immortal. Immortal it is. It cannot do honor to the man. Mark Twain already is an institution.

The association bought the land for this park and it was opened to the public with due ceremony on August 20, 1924. Thousands flocked to the shrine to dedicate it to Missouri's own humorist. Since this date the park has been transferred to the State and forms one of the five tracts in Missouri's park system.

The park is a piot of ground confining its scope to no surveyor's straight lines. Its borders are as free and unrestrained as was the pen of the author which wandered where it would. There are 150 acres of wooded beauty. Professor Horace F. Major of the University of Missouri, who has served as landscape architect for the association has wrought wonders in the apperance of the land. He has spent only about $5.000 and has used labor found in the vicinity of Florida.

The park is a state play ground. There are to be camping facilities, bath houses and accomodations for tourists. Thousands of visitors already travel to this mecca to enjoy its beauties and pay homage to him to whom it is dedicated.

Florida is destined to shake itself from the dreaming lethargy which has made it impervious to the onrush of the progress of the day. "Around it clusters still, as to few spots in the valley country, the mass of legend and tradition surviving so great an historical event. The fact that the most whimsical genius of the race was born there should not be viewed wholly as an accident."

Madame Clemens Gaillowitsch, Mark Twain's daughter, who has given benefit concerts to aid in the park movement, expresses her gratitude in these words: "Various kinds of tributes of reverence have been shown my father's memory since his death, but none have been more warmly appreciated by me than the one conceived by the people of Florida."

It has lately seemed strange to me that the more a man or a state does the severer are the critics. Mark Twain and Missouri are examples. No commonwealth had done greater honor to her leading citizen than this state. A Mark Twain monument of art, erected with funds from the State Treasury, stands in Riverview Park at Hannibal. The Mark Twain boyhood home in Hannibal was purchased and donated to that city by two of her public spirited citizens, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Mahan. A statue of Tom Sawyers and Huckleberry Finn are soon to stand on Cardiff Hill in that city, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Mahan. And a State Memorial Mark Twain Park at the village of Florida today commemorates the birthplace of this beloved son. Contrast these tokens of love and appreciation with the history of Edgar Allen Poe, to whose memory so material honor has yet been paid and over whose grave in Baltimore only a mutilated stone, the product of a quarter of a century of school children gifts, rests today. And Samuel L. Clemens and Edgar Allen Poe are among the four or five greatest men of letters America has produced.

Chicago Closing Market Review.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Irregular action featured today's close on the Board of Trade. Wheat dropped sharply. Corn finished unchanged to fractionally lower and oats were fractionally lower.

General selling of wheat was mostly in the nature of week-end evening up.

Moderate selling by commission houses weakened stock corn. Unfavorable crop complaints from main areas of principal producing region offset the bearish market undertone and brought about a steady future close.

Oats trade consisted mostly of exchanging between deliveries at fractionally lower levels.

Provisions climbed up after a small dip at the opening.

STATE FAIR OPENS TODAY

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS SILVER ANNIVERSARY OPENING.

CHURCH DAY SUNDAY

Program Will Be Given Over To Church Organizations of the State —Rev. Badger To Speak.

Missouri State Fair Grounds, August 15.—The Missouri State Fair opened its silver anniversary exposition here today with a host of officials and employees of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad Company directly in charge of the program. Approximately 3,500 members of the Railroad system were present, having been invited to Missouri's State Fair grounds from all points along the Railroad system.

The festivities of the day started with a parade of Katy employees and officials through the down town districts of Sedalia. Twenty-two floats were in the parade which lasted for more than an hour before it was disbanded.

Today's program by the Railroad Company consisted of some specialty features of entertainment in front of the grandstand, just preceding the four special running races which were given to the visitors and Katy people by the Missouri State Fair Board. The forty-piece band from Parsons, Kansas, the official band for the M. K. & T. Railroad Company and the band which will play all grandstand attractions during Fair week, was the outstanding feature of the day. Under the direction of W. A. Thomasson and with the aid of four selected solo singers, the band immediately gained the favor of the crowds.

This is the second year that the M. K. & T. Railroad has had official direction of the opening day program. The numbers who attended were very much in excess of last year, and the program given by the company was considered the best opening day program seen here in several years. The large aggregation of visitors was due principally to a holiday having been declared at all points easily accessible to Sedalia.

Tomorrow's program at the State Fair will be given over to the church organizations of the state. The Rev. Jesse M. Bader, general secretary of evangelism for the United States, will deliver a sermon tomorrow night on the subject, "Christ's Call to America." The M. K. & T. concert band will play the concert offerings. Young people's christian associations of Missouri have charge of the morning program.

8 Counties Form Organization to Advertise Ozarks

World to Be Told About Scenic Beauties of Southern Missouri.

Ellington, Mo., Aug. 15.—Eight counties in the Missouri Ozarks Chamber of Commerce have subscribed their allotment for the organization which is being formed "to advertise and promote interest in the Missouri Ozarks," it was announced by Anthony A. Buford, secretary of the chamber. The counties are Jefferson, Washington, Iron, Wayne, Butler, Reynolds, Carter and Shannon.

Five others, Ripley, Oregon, Dent, Crawford and Phelps are expected to complete their respective quotas soon. It is hoped that a final report can be presented to the board of directors at a meeting in Potosi, August 17.

Big Springs Country.

"Every county in the Big Springs country has something worth traveling hundreds of miles to see," said Secretary Buford in speaking of the Missouri Ozark region.

Among the attractions offered for the inspection and pleasure of visitors are: Cliff cave and Sulphur springs in Jefferson county, the Boy Scout camp near Irondale, the Cedar bluffs and oak and pine forests in Washington county; Lake Killarney, Pilot knob, and the Arcadia valley in Iron county; the "shut in," the McKibbon spring and the State park in Reynolds; the State park and the Big spring in Carter; Homes cave, he Piedmont canyon and the Cave spring in Wayne; the "Lost Cave of the Romies," Keener cave and spring and the scenic drives in Butler; the springs, pine and oak forests and picturesque drives in Ripley; Alley Spring State park, the Elb and Flow spring, Rocky falls and Sinking Stream, believed to be the only under mountain stream in Missouri, in Shannon; Greer spring and Rocky gorge in Oregon; the State park, caves and spring in Dent; Maramac spring in Phelps and the Onondaga cave in Crawford county.

One of World's Wonders.

The chamber terms the Onondaga Cave "one of the world's wonders." The features of the subterranean cavern are the Lost river, the Natural bridge, the Twin Stalagmites, the Frost Room, the Lily Room, the Royal Rotunda, 100 feet in diameter, the Briday bridge Chamber, the Cmines, the Portico, the Ballroom (300 feet long, 100 feet wide and 40 feet high, with a floor of almost unbroken onyx). Musicians' balcony, the Bear Skeletons, the Lions' head, the Shower Bath and the Fountain.

Thomas Wallace, author, linguist, world traveler and member of the National Geographical society, who recently visited the cave, said, "I have seen much of the four quarters of the globe but this, in its line, surpasses all I have ever seen." He expressed the opinion that Missouri possessed a stellar attraction in Onondaga Cave.

Federal Prison Jam Requires State Aid to House Overflow

By WILLIAM J. McEVOY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Aug. 15. — (United Press).—While England is closing many of its penal institutions for the want of occupants the United States is experiencing, the greatest difficulty in housing the growing number of its federal prisoners.

The population in the three federal penitentiaries has tripled since 1913 and the Department of Justice has sought aid from several States in accommodating the overflow of prisoners.

Some few States which have vacant space have volunteered to care for a limited number of federal prisoners and the Department is now investigating conditions in the Texas State Penitentiary, preparatory to sending a batch of federal lawbreakers there.

Federal institutions in Atlanta, Leavenworth and McNeil Islamt are taxed to capacity. They now hold a total of 7,170 prisoners, compared with 2,500 in 1913.

England Closing Prisons.

Through increased use of probationary measures for adults, and Borstal institutions for young people, England has successfully diminished its prison population, according to advices received by the Department of Commerce from Alfred Nutting of the staff of the American Consulate General in London.

More than 20 prisons in England and Wales have been closed since 1914 Nutting reported, and only about 40 are now in use.

"These 40 institutions," Nutting said, "are by no means fully occupied."

The total prison population in England in the year 1923-24 was 58,216 as against 167,000 ten years previous. Prisons which have been ordered abandoned have been sold.

Nutting quoted an official of the Home Office as follows:

"The tendency nowadays is to reform a man or woman if it is in any way possible. Prison does NOT reform a person who commits a crime, and should only be used as a last resort.

More Probation

"The decrease in the number of people committed to prison is largely due to the increased use of probationary methods. Greater care is taken of people under probation, and the sending of boys between the ages of 16 and 21 to Borstal institutions instead of gaol is now bearing fruit."

Prisons which have been closed in England in recent years include, Knutsford, Chelmsford, Northampton, Carlisle, Canterbury, Carnavon, Unk, Worchester, Northallerton, Reading, Devizes, Hereford, St. Albans, Sheffield and Newcastle.

A number of these buildings are now being used as dwelling places while the War Office has put some into use as a confinement place for conscientious objectors.
